Hairpiece for teen-age swingers takes a cue from the Hullabaloo dancers on television. Wig is of man-made fibers, can be cleaned and restyled to help maintain a neater appearance on the dance floor. Dancer here favors a neat shift with popular Henley collar.

Parents may plug their ears but dancing to the thumping beat that's come a long way from the original rock 'n' roll is good for youth. (Now that we've said it, they may stop dancing.)

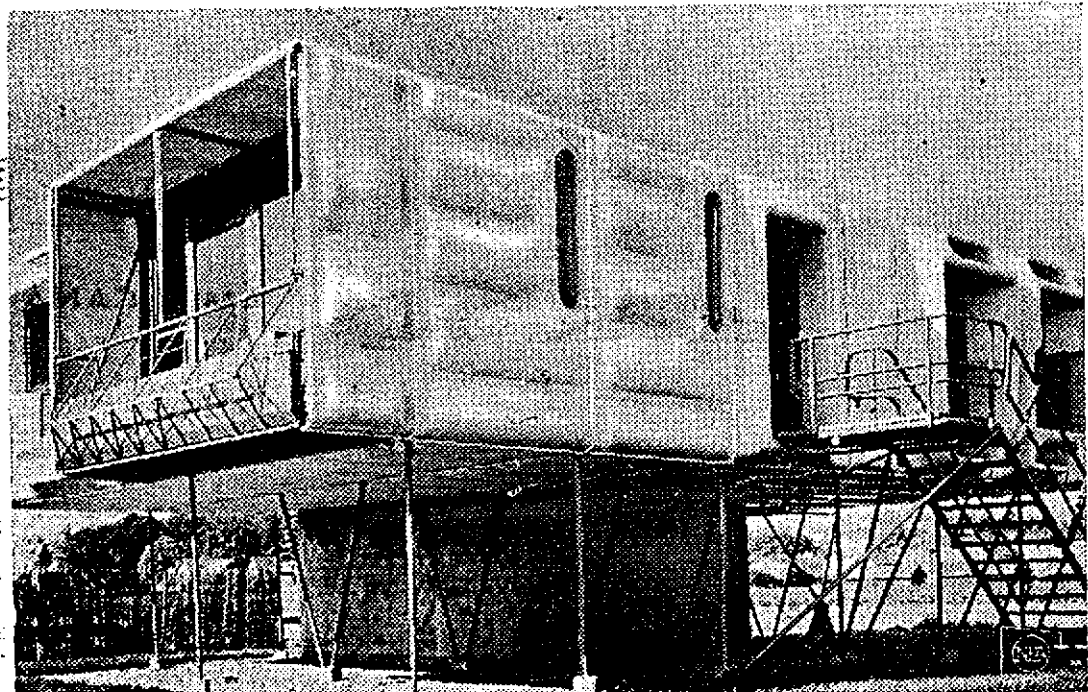

It is recognized as good exercise and keeps them out of more mischief than adults realize. The next step is spiffing up their grooming.

Joey also picked up a tip from a model to help you keep your hair tidy. Use hairpins. Bend one side about halfway down to form a "U." This slips in the hair easily but the little hook holds it in.

Another switch on hairdos for dancing is just that — a switch or hairpiece. One takes a cue from the television Hullabaloo show. It is a cover-up shoulder-length wig mounted on a wide headband. Of acetate and dymel, it can be cleaned, and restyled to maintain that neat look while "monkeying" around the floor.

Joey Dee also urges the dancers to take extra precautions against perspiration and says he uses a medicated body powder to help absorb extra moisture.

Protect Eyes in Snow or Sun

by Alicia Hart

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Memory appears to play tricks on adults when they reminisce about the weather. Winter, for example, appears less severe, frigid and blizzardy than in the years when some remember ice skating in the streets. Still, it's cold enough for many to rush off to sunny resort spots to escape or to the ski slopes to enjoy it.

Whether you are vacationing or just making do at home, the season calls for a few precautions. In snowy areas and ski resorts sun and wind can burn and irritate eyes and skin. For comfort and safety, top eye protection at the top of your list. Researchers (for the Murine Co.) point out that on cloudy days the glare of winter sun reflected from snow or ice can be treacherous.

Wear ski goggles for outdoor sports and prescription sun glasses for driving during the day. Don't drive with sunglasses at night. Sunglare and windburn can produce headaches and fatigue. To soothe the eyes keep eye-drops handy.

If you are one of the 2½ million skiers who will trek to more than 600 ski resorts in the United States this year, follow these tips for safety and comfort:

• Pack plenty of warm clothes to prevent frostbite; take along Band-aids and first aid equipment for minor scrapes; include sun lotion, skin cream, lip balm and cleansing tissue (men, too), and start ski exercises before you head for the slopes to limber up your muscles. This helps avoid spills from stiffness and fatigue.

Special products for special needs aid women in the age-old fight to stay time. Sized to carry in pocketbook or sportcoat during outdoor play is an eye oil stick. It is used at bedtime and during the day to keep delicate skin around the eyes moist and lubricated. A lip emollient proves especially effective during winter when lips tend to dry and peel. Wear under and over lipstick.

• For the beach bound: Don't forget those sunglasses and sun-screening lotions and creams. Time sun bathing to 15 minutes on each side the first day and increase gradually. Overexposure to sun can ruin a vacation, as many sadly have found.

Winter can be fun in the snow or sun if you face the elements prepared.

Nature's Errors Can Now Be Brushed Away

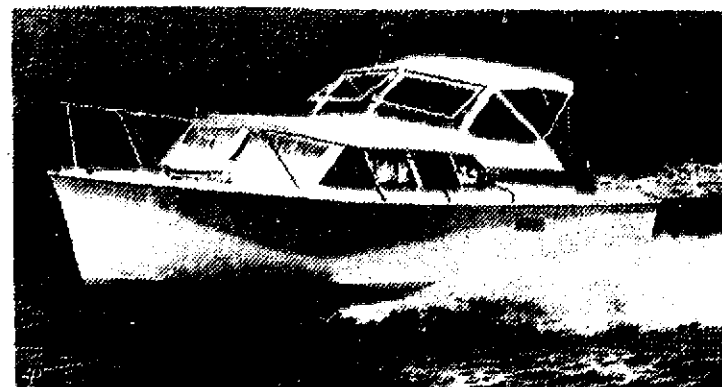

Brush-on make-up helps young women grow adept at camouflaging nature's mistakes. Select dark shade brush-on make-up to simulate shadows on cheekbones to cut down on jowly look. Brush down center of nose to improve its appearance, too.

Boating Enthusiasts
During 1965, it is estimated that 39,325,000 persons participated in recreational boating in the United States more than once or twice. These used a total of 7,865,000 recreational boats in all waters of the nation.

A great look for the ski slope or even for the apres ski crowd is raccoon all the way from helmet to collar to sleeve (left). It's warm, comfortable and has a diagonal zip closing for a fashion plus. HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THIS ECONOMICAL yet tasteful home boasts an efficient floor plan, with six rooms located off a foyer and center hall, plus two baths and closets arranged to afford sound insulation to the bedrooms and to save steps. The living room has two paneled walls and a cathedral ceiling which adds an extra illusion of space. Optional treatment for the end wall is a brick fireplace with paneled wood hood, flanked by floor to ceiling mirrors. The kitchen has corner-style sink and dining room opens on sheltered side terrace by sliding glass doors. Architect Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica, N.Y., says the minimum lot should be 65 by 90. Plan HA428P contains 1,216 square feet.

5,000 Air Lifted From Cuba to U.S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The number of refugees airlifted from Cuba to the United States since Dec. 1 has passed 5,000.

With 160 arriving Monday, the total reached 1,257 men, 2,265 women and 1,562 children.

Under a rotating system with other airlines, Mackey Airlines began flying in refugees from Varadero Beach, the Cuban departure point. The flights, paid for by the U.S. government, are made twice a day on weekdays.

Meanwhile, six men, including some of military age ineligible for the airlift, fled Cuba in a 23-foot boat. They reached Key Sal, north of Cuba, and were brought here by the U.S. Coast Guard.

The Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba, an anti-Castro organization, says an underground radio station is being constructed near Havana.

The committee said Cuban Communications Ministry employees believe the secret plant will be used to direct Communist guerrilla operations in Latin America. Soviet military officers are supervising the construction, the report says.

U.S. to Up Interest on Saving Bonds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government soon will hike interest rates on U.S. savings bonds to the maximum allowable 4 1/2 per cent but will not ask congressional approval to go beyond that, sources indicated today.

The government now pays 3 1/2 per cent interest on the $49 billion outstanding in series "E" and "H" bonds.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler announced Tuesday that President Johnson had ordered the interest boost at "the earliest possible date." Fowler said the higher rates will help maintain the bond sales.

Under law, the government cannot raise the interest rate beyond 4 1/2 per cent without congressional approval.

In a New York speech, Fowler gave no indication of how large an increase is being considered. He said only that the nation was again at a point "where rates available on variety of alternative forms of savings have moved beyond the rate paid on U.S. savings bonds."

But federal officials here, while unwilling to spell out details of what the White House has ordered, indicated that an interest rate rise to 4 1/2 per cent is in the offing. They noted that ordinary commercial savings accounts and payments to building and loan associations now yield at least 2 1/4 per cent.

They also noted that only this week the government accepted yields of up to 4.77 per cent for interest rates on its short-term borrowings.

Within recent days, moreover, commercial banks have raised to 4 1/2 per cent the interest rates they will pay on medium-duration savings certificates.

Key members of the Senate committee that would have to act on any raising of the statutory interest rate indicated that the President does not intend to raise the rates beyond 4 1/2 per cent.

Sens. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., members of the Senate Finance Committee, said they had not been consulted before Fowler announced the President's decision.

McCarthy said, however, that the disclosure came as no surprise. He said other interest rates have increased substantially beyond what the government has been willing to pay citizens who invest in savings bonds.

Fashions in Italy Are Colorful

ROME (AP) — All Italian fashion thus far for spring and summer is divided into two camps — black and white, and technicolor.

There are other divisions — other than those glamorous long divisions called party pants which every Italian couturier from Enzo to Galitzine included in their collections Tuesday.

Some designers like the Fontana sisters and Princess Galitzine are determined devotees of a modest knee-high hem.

Some stick to femininity in its original form — making the most of that form, as designers Balestra and Enzo do. Others believe in subtly, draping their undulating ladies under rippling yards of wispy sheers or silken crepes.

Ognibene Zendman decides to hide possibly wide hips altogether under skirts that flare wide to the sides.

At the climax of the long day of shows was Princess Galitzine who indicated that if fashion is divided, she can take both sides and get away with it.

High diagonal stripes and myriad inserts of black and white, and with a variety of patterns bouncing around like the kaleidoscopic designs for which she named her collection, Galitzine was definitely on the side of black and white.

But her swirly silks and sheers, used for lace-edged negligees, and later in stronger colors as party clothes, all in all, indicated she knows and appreciates the beauty of technicolor.

Her costumes were cut diagonally in two color effects, emphasizing on one hipbone, on one side or another, never down the middle. Sashes tied at the sides and midriffs were bared in diamond-shaped holes in the sides.

About those other divisions, pants, Galitzine contrasted the balloon-legged party kinds with mannish sportswear, creased trousers belted low on the hip-line, worn with fingertip-length pea jackets and T-shirts.

Early spring means different things to different people. When buds start budding women's thoughts just naturally turn to that new outfit they feel they deserve. This spring it may well be one from the Jon McCauley Collection, shown exclusively at Raley's.

These are fashions made for balmy days. Casual Cuts, simple styles, easy-to-wear dresses, pleats of all kinds, but optional. And in such fanciful fabrics — rayon combinations that look like linen, silk, homespuns that feel rough or smooth or just interesting. A slip of pure silk. And the overall look? One of femininity.

Not to be ignored are the colors — Such new shades as earth, celery, Geranium, chick combination of peony red and bone. Patterns? Stripes. Polka dots, checks and screen prints in abstracts straight from the artist's palette and sophisticated border prints.

Then there are Navy's interchangeable dummies, the touch of embroidery, the ascot. All part of the Jon McCauley collection for early spring '66.

You can see and try this delightful collection of dresses, coat and dress ensembles, and suits at Raley's Style Shoppe Hope's House of Fashion.

Wrong Idea Signs

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Some roadside signs are giving tourists the wrong idea about New Mexico, says one of the state's four candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"Such signs as 'Come see the rattlesnakes' and 'Get your water bottle, you are entering the desert put the state in bad light in the minds of tourists,' Roy S. Walker, a Clovis businessman, said in a speech. He urged elimination of such signs.

All-Time High for USDA Loans

Family farmers throughout the United States and Puerto Rico during the first 4 months of fiscal 1966 — July through October — borrowed more money from the Farmers Home Administration to improve their farms, buy land or refinance debts than in any similar period in the agency's history, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman reported today.

He explained that the nearly $100 million in credit extended to 6,725 farm families during the first third of fiscal 1966 is $26.5 million more than the $73.5 million loaned to 4,269 families in all of fiscal 1965 when the previous high level was reached.

Eligible family farmers — in their effort to obtain the resources required to develop adequate incomes — are using the agency's supervised credit to: (1) Develop existing land and resources and modernize buildings; (2) Purchase additional land, and (3) refinance debts on terms tailored to their repayment ability.

Secretary Freeman said, "It is interesting to note that besides the 6,725 families assisted this fiscal year, more than 82,000 farm families who might otherwise have been forced to leave the land and seek city employment during fiscal 1965 continued to use farm ownership credit obtained in previous years to strengthen their economic position."

A recent progress study of a representative group of family farm owners assisted by the FHA showed that their gross income was boosted from $8,491 annually to $16,078 in 5 years. Their standard of living was increased by about $2,600 a year while the average net worth of these farmers was raised by some $11,000 during the same period.

Secretary Freeman also explained that the group of FHA-assisted family farmers covered by the progress report includes some families previously living under poverty conditions. "The necessary resources acquired through USA's supervised credit is now making it possible for these farm families to have a decent standard of living," the Secretary declared.

Cornhuskers Use Old Script for an Upset

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
An unknown little guy came off the bench and gave Nebraska a 43-41 victory over Big Will Chamberlain and the University of Kansas eight years ago in what is regarded as the No. 1 upset in the history of Big Eight college basketball.

They used virtually the same script at Lincoln, Neb., Tuesday night as the Cornhuskers again upset Kansas 83-75 and took over first place in the Big Eight Conference.

The hero this time was Jim Damm, a 6-foot-2 sophomore from Bellflower, Calif. He came off the bench and scored 11 points, his career high, in helping the Huskers come from behind a nine-point deficit in the first half.

In 1958, it was Jim Kubacki who scored the winning basket in the last second. Kubacki was in street clothes when the game started, but persuaded his coach to let him suit up for the second half.

The defeat snapped an eight-game winning streak for Kansas, sixth-ranked in The Associated Press poll. Nebraska, now 12-2 over-all, is assured its first winning season in 16 years. Not since their 16-7 record in 1950 have the Huskers bettered .500 for a season.

A crowd of 8,566 saw Damm and Nate Branch spark a 24-4 Nebraska spurt that erased Kansas' 28-19 lead and the Jayhawks never caught up. Branch's 18 points were high for Nebraska.

None of the other teams in the AP Top Ten played Tuesday night as midyear exams cut competition to a minimum.

Texas A & M strengthened its hold on first place in the Southwest Conference with a comeback 64-57 triumph over Texas at Austin. The Aggies trailed by 13 points at halftime 42-29, but rallied in the second half behind big John Beasley's 22 points.

DePaul, a leading independent, jumped off to a 12-0 lead and went to trounce Niagara 81-61 at Niagara Falls, N.Y. Tom Meyer, son of Ray Meyer, the DePaul coach, led the Blue Demons points.

Clemson, Furman, Florida and Gonzaga each turned in road victories. Clemson beat The Citadel 70-61, Furman edged Wofford 78-75 in overtime. Florida downed Florida State 74-65 and Gonzaga walloped Eastern Washington 62-42.

GOPs Calling for Stern New Measures

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders who once advocated a naval quarantine of North Viet Nam have moved their cries for stern new war measures since President Johnson began his publicized peace drive.

The Republican prescription outlined Monday night by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen did not mention the GOP policy of escalation of five weeks ago which recommended heightened war in the air and at sea.

Instead, Dirksen charted a course apparently identical to that Johnson is following.

Continue the quest for peace, Dirksen said.

Let it be intensified if necessary as sound military progress is made, Dirksen said.

Johnson, in a speech that hinted at the coming peace drive and Dec. 29 he was determined

Dodgers to Again Rely on Speed

DARTTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Pitching, speed and determination again will be the ingredients of the Los Angeles Dodgers, says Walter Alston, manager of the world champion baseball team.

"The team won't be any different," Alston said, "except maybe for the return of Tommy Davis to give us more hitting power. How much he'll be able to play, I just don't know at this time."

Davis is recovering from a broken leg.

The Dodgers, who won the National League pennant last year with a 13-game winning streak at the end of the season and then went on to whip Minnesota in the World Series, were named the Team of the Year for 1965 Tuesday in the annual Associated Press poll.

"I'm very happy for the award and proud that the boys were chosen," said Alston, who spends the winters with his daughter and grandchildren in Darttown, 25 miles north of Cincinnati.

The Dodgers beat out Michigan State's football team, which went undefeated in 10 regular season games to win the Big Ten title before being upset by UCLA in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

The 303 sports writers and sportscasters voting in the poll gave the Dodgers 102 first-place votes and 499 points. Michigan State collected 55 first-place ballots and 287 points.

Alston said the Dodgers "will have to play the same type of ball this year. I don't think we'll have a home run hitting club. It's nice to have a few homers, but we're not noted for them."

Davis, one of the league's top sluggers, dampened Los Angeles' hopes early last season when he broke a leg and was out for the rest of the year.

Alston attributed his team's success last year to "good pitching and speed. But what makes me more proud is that the team worked together as a unit. I thought we had a good team spirit, good determination. We didn't give up when we got behind."

"All I can ask is that we have those same things this year," Alston said.

About Sandy Koufax, his star pitcher who led both leagues with a 26-8 record, Alston said: "I don't know how any pitcher can do better than he did. I'm just hoping he does as well."

The Dodgers had led the league most of the year, but on Sept. 15 found themselves in third place, 4½ games behind first-place San Francisco. They then went on a 13-game winning streak and captured the pennant the day before the season ended.

In 1964, the Dodgers finished in a sixth-place tie in the NL.

Bill Would Admit Police Into Clubs

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Christian Civic Foundation of Arkansas is preparing a bill which would allow law enforcement officers to enter private clubs, the foundation's executive secretary said here Monday.

William E. Brown, 76, also announced that he was resigning from the foundation job effective in June. He has been the only executive secretary in the foundation's history, and has led its fight against gambling, liquor and narcotics.

At the organization's annual meeting here, he urged members to work to make their counties dry.

He said the private club bill proposal would go to legislators, who would be asked to state their position on it. He declined to elaborate on the bill.

Liquor problems were the main topic at the meeting. Three Camden ministers told of efforts to vote Ouachita County dry.

Taylor Loses, Lemm May Get Houston Job

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Wally Lemm says he's not interested but he remains the No. 1 candidate today for the Houston Oilers' coaching job after Bones Taylor came out second best in a confrontation with Oilers' quarterback George Blanda.

Despite his denial, The Associated Press learned from a reliable source Tuesday night that Lemm is ready for his second go-round as head coach of the American Football League club, the 1st Houston to the AFL title in 1961.

Lemm, who resigned as coach of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League only nine days ago, would be the Oilers' sixth coach in the last seven years. The job is becoming as secure as a javelin catcher at a track meet.

The latest casualty was Taylor, who took over for Sammy Baugh last season. The club finished last in the Eastern Division with a 4-10 mark but Taylor was reportedly set with a new three-year contract until last Friday when his conflict with Blanda became public.

Don Klosterman, the Oilers' new executive vice president and general manager, made the announcement of Taylor's dismissal at a press conference Tuesday night.

In a prepared statement, Klosterman said:

"The decision was made primarily as a result of recent news media commentary indicating an apparent inharmonious relationship existing between Coach Taylor and George Blanda in which certain statements were attributed to both parties involved creating an atmosphere not conducive to a winning football team."

Taylor's contract will expire without renewal Jan. 31.

His feud with Blanda, the Oilers' 37-year-old quarterback, came to a head when Taylor asked Houston owner K.S. (Bud) Adams to either trade Blanda or buy up his contract and released him.

"I learned one thing in my first year as head coach," Taylor said at that time. "You can't let a player dictate to you. Lou Saban didn't take it from Cookie Gilchrist and I don't plan to take it from George Blanda."

Blanda, a 16-year veteran of professional football, shrugged off Taylor's blast.

"If he's put it on a 'him-or-me' basis, it will be him because I have a no-trade clause in my contract," Blanda said at the time.

"I know this," said Taylor in making his ultimatum. "One of us won't be back next season." He was right there.

Decision From Foss to Come Soon

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss was expected to hand down his final image-changing decision for the American Football League today by ruling on the disputed trade involving San Diego's Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison.

Foss has been investigating the case since withholding approval of the five-player trade between the Chargers and the Houston Oilers. He has the power to void the deal and/or hand out fines up to $2,000 by himself — up to $25,000 with the approval of the league's owners.

Foss grappled with his decision following a 15-hour session of meetings Tuesday that resulted in these developments:

—The owners voted to expand by two terms instead of the expected one, for the 1967 season while Foss listed the cities still in the running as Portland, Ore.; Los Angeles and Anaheim, Calif.; Chicago; Milwaukee; Cincinnati; Philadelphia; Washington, D.C., and New Orleans.

—Boston linebacker Nick Buoniconti was called on the carpet for making statements detrimental to the league and because, according to Foss, "the popoff system in this league is no longer fashionable."

—The new Miami Dolphins continued to fill out their roster in the expansion draft by selecting eight additional players, including Kansas City receiver Frank Jackson and Oakland guard Ken Rice.

—Coach Bones Taylor was fired by the Oilers and was expected to be replaced by Wally Lemm, a former Houston coach who recently resigned a similar post with St. Louis of the National League.

Foss originally held up approval of the Ladd-Faison trade Monday while he took on the task of investigating tampering charges leveled by San Diego

Halas Drops Breach of Contract Suit

By JOE MOOSHL

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — George Halas can pull off a quick play opener in the courtroom as well as the football field.

The 70-year-old owner-coach of the Chicago Bears proved it Tuesday with a sudden end to his breach of contract suit against George Allen, freeing Allen to become head coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

Halas' action took everyone off the hook including himself, Allen, the Rams and Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League.

Circuit Judge Cornelius Harrington upheld the validity of the three-year contract which Allen signed as an assistant coach last year. He said Allen breached his contract by not obtaining written permission to negotiate with the Rams and by verbally agreeing to take the Rams job.

Halas needed no more of an opening. He acted quickly and surprisingly.

"Your honor, I wish to make a statement," said Halas as he walked towards the judge. Halas' attorney, Charles Short, told his client, "No, no. Sit down. Forget it."

But Halas brushed Short aside. Allen's attorney, Albert Jenner, objected, saying if Halas wanted to make a statement he'd have to be under oath. Halas was sworn in.

As soon as Halas opened his mouth saying, "Your honor, my name is George Halas, and I am most pleased with your decision upholding the validity of the contract," Jenner objected.

It was to no avail. Halas had the ball and no courtroom barrister was about to stop the old pro who still holds the NFL record of returning a fumble 98 yards for a touchdown in 1923 against Jim Thrope's Carlisle Indians.

As Jenner kept shouting "Objection, objection, objection," Halas kept talking. "Your important ruling will uphold the integrity between National Football League clubs and preserve the sanctity of contracts..."

"Objection, objection, objection," repeated Jenner.

"Validity was the issue here and will prevent the breakdown of organized football and all sports," continued Halas. "George Allen was a minor issue. Validity was the issue."

Halas then tossed the bomb and scored. He turned to Allen and told his aide he was dropping the suit and Allen was free to take the Rams' head coaching job.

Halas made his point to his own satisfaction. Allen was happy because he was free to leave his $19,000 job with the Bears to take the Ram job at a reported $40,000 a year.

Dan Reeves, owner of the Rams, said in Los Angeles "Fine. Everybody seems to be happy. Now let's get to work."

Commissioner Rozelle does not have to hold a hearing between the two involved clubs in which he might have had to rule against one of the two owners.

Without holding approval of the trade was the first step taken by Foss in attempting to right the league's image.

Then, Tuesday, before announcing the new expansion plans, Foss applied his get-tough policy again by issuing a summons to his office to Buoniconti.

Buoniconti, noting the success of Ladd and Faison, had been quoted as saying he plans to play out his option with the Patriots if he isn't given a substantial raise.

In discussing the Buoniconti case, Foss explained that "I called him because of statements that I consider detrimental to the American Football League."

Foss' sharp comment was taken to include not only Buoniconti but also Adams and New York owner Sonny Werblin, who has been quoted recently on the subject of shifting existing franchises.

NEW YORK (AP) — "12 O'Clock High" usually is built around the personalities and emotional conflicts within a World War II bomber squadron stationed in England and led by Col. Joe Gallagher.

By a simple expedient, Monday night's episode was converted into a classic example of another type of adventure — the hunted man plot.

All that was necessary was to have Col. Gallagher bail out of his plane, land in neutral Switzerland and try to get back to

Only two out of nine teams carry an undefeated conference record into the third week of play in Div. 4AA basketball. The Fairview Cardinals and Crossett Eagles share the lead this week with 3-0 marks.

The Smackover Bucks and Warren Lumberjacks are in challenging positions with only one defeat on their slate.

Results last week: Fairview 66, Smackover 63; Magnolia 62, Camden 53; Crossat 56, Warren 31; Hope 64, Magnolia 50; Arkadelphia 56, Malvern 44; Crossett 62, Malvern 42; Smackover 63, Camden 32; Arkadelphia 58, Hope 42.

Games this week: Friday Fairview at Magnolia; Warren at Malvern; Crossett at Hope; Camden at Arkadelphia. Saturday — Magnolia at Smackover; Hope at Warren; Arkadelphia at Fairview; Camden at Crossett.

The race for individual scoring honors finds only five points separating the first four players. Smackover's Mike Holloway continues to hold the lead but by only one point over teammate Ken McCaughey. Holloway has 79 points. McCaughey along with Ronnie Thornton of Malvern have 78. England and the war.

The story became the familiar one of the underground and the resistance, the hiding places, the wine cellars, secret pass-words and all the rest. There was also a young deserter from the German army and a pretty French girl whose father had been killed by the Gestapo.

The colonel had some narrow escapes, and in the end there was the final shoot-out after the young German deserter turned out to be a Nazi SS man traveling the escape route to destroy it.

The same basic story could have been used, with a small amount of tailoring, for any number of other series. "Run For Your Life," for instance, could have used it to have the hero smuggle a girl out of East Berlin. "I Spy" could have used it to remove an important personage from Red China.

The fact is that any series which must turn out 30 or so scripts a year, soon is out of plots. The test of creativity is how well an aged plot is dressed up to look young and fresh and entertaining.

NBC's "Mona McCluskey," the comedy series starring Juliet Prowse that never got off the ground, will disappear April 14 after 26 shows. It will be replaced in the "Thursday night" schedule with a musical show called "Mickie Finn's" starring Fred E. Finn and wife Mickie who really run a cafe in San Diego.

Tom Matte Is an Ulcer Case

Even the Doctor Is Puzzled

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD BEACH, Fla. — (NEA) — Two years ago, Tom Matte was in a hospital bed and the doctors were telling him they might have to cut away three-fourths of his stomach.

Bleeding ulcers can do that to a person. But somehow, with transfusions and other medication, the bleeding was controlled, the operation unnecessary.

The ulcers, however, remained, and Tom Matte is still on a special diet, still drinks two-and-a-half quarts of milk daily and carries a bottle of Maalox wherever he goes.

"They still bother me," Matte said, "but the strangest thing is that during the last few weeks of the season I didn't have any problems at all."

Matte shook his head, shrugged his shoulders.

"Don't ask me for explanations," he said, smiling. "Maybe the American Medical Association knows why."

The AMA doesn't know, though. Neither does Dr. Erwin E. Mayer, the Colts' team physician.

"I have heard of cases like this," Dr. Mayer said, "but there just are no easy ways to explain it. With Tom, it was very interesting because we have to watch him closely. He is an extremely intense individual."

Judging from his medical history, Matte should have been back in the hospital instead of at quarterback for the Colts during the tense, final weeks of the NFL season.

Normally a halfback, he was playing quarterback for the first time since he left Ohio State five years ago because Baltimore had lost Johnny Unitas and Gary Cuozzo through injuries.

"Maybe it was the team," Matte said during the NFL Players Association meeting. "Maybe they made me feel so loose that I really didn't worry. They did give me confidence and they were always joking around, helping me."

"And Don (Shula) had confidence in me, too. That was important."

"Maybe my personal life had something to do with it, too. Everything changed. I started getting mail from all over the country wishing me well... and phone calls."

"A high school kid sent the best telegram. It said: 'From one third-string quarterback to another. Good Luck.'"

"The whole thing has been an amazing experience for me and my wife. Years from now I guess I'll appreciate it even more."

"The whole country seemed to be rooting for the Colts. It's too bad Cinderella's glass slipper had to break."

The Green Bay Packers were the villains, beating the Colts by a field goal in their Western Division play-off game which, as the years go by, will be considered one of the classics in pro football history.

Tom Matte also will be remembered for his performance, one that just didn't figure — professionally or medically.

Golf Balls Land in Strangest Places

By DAVE BURGIN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — What makes golf so interesting is how that innocent-looking little white ball can come to rest in the strangest places.

"Anybody in this country who has played more than one round of golf probably knows it," said Gene Sarazen. "How could he come back and play the second round if the first one wasn't interesting?"

"But they haven't seen anything yet. They should play some of these foreign courses I've been playing."

"Brother!"

Sarazen, for four decades one of golf's great names, is host on the new television series called "Shell's Wonderful World of Golf." For the show he has traveled more than 250,000 miles to golf courses around the world.

"In Greece they don't like to cut down trees," Sarazen said. "It's nothing to have a drive land behind a 500-year-old tree stuck right in the middle of the fairway."

In Burma, Sarazen had his tee shot stop near a small hole. Not too unusual except the hole was somebody's home and a six-foot viper was vigilantly coiled nearby.

"They had to kill that snake before I could continue. I wasn't the same the rest of the round," he said.

"You might as well be on a safari at some of these foreign courses."

Sarazen once had an elephant as a caddy.

"But courses around the world are improving," he said.

"Foreign countries now are aware that American and other English-speaking tourists are attracted by good golf courses. Our servicemen overseas also have encouraged the international golf boom."

"Thirty years ago, Spain had virtually no courses. Now it has dozens that compare to the better courses in England and the United States."

Matches for Sarazen's show were filmed at some of the world's more exotic spots — Japan, Malaya, Panama, the Philippines, Spain, the Middle East, and the fabled country of Norway.

"We try to show how foreign courses offer new challenges," Sarazen said. "We also try to get more color and humor into the shows. Sometimes television golf gets too serious."

Sarazen, himself, occasionally is the source of gallery laughs in foreign lands.

It isn't often they see a man in knickers.

GARDEN VARIETY—Golf course greenskeepers in Japan are a proud lot. They should be. Japanese courses, such as the Ibaraki Country Club of Osaka shown here, are impeccably kept in the best tradition of Japanese gardening. Japanese cherry trees neatly line twisting, rolling fairways. Floral shrubs and man-made landscape arrangements give courses a park-like effect. Even the driving ranges in Japan (there are more than 3,000) are given the garden treatment, except for one located atop a department store in downtown Tokyo.

Sees Okay to Millions for Post Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairmen of the Senate and House Post Office Committees predicted today Congress will stamp "approved" on a $15-million administration package which would beef up postal service in thousands of American communities.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., and Rep. Tom Murray, D-Tenn. said in separate interviews they favored moves announced Saturday to restore parcel post and post office window service eliminated in a 1964 law service eliminated in a 1964 economy move.

"This is just the first step" in administration efforts to improve postal service, Monroney said. Congressional approval is necessary because of the $15-million annual cost of the increased service.

Saturday's announcement said President Johnson has approved a recommendation by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien that six-day-a-week parcel post service be restored in 6,091 communities with populations over 3,000. Since 1964 one day each week has been skipped for deliveries in these cities except where postmen used motor vehicles to deliver parcels.

The other move will be increased window service at night and on weekends in nearly 15,000 post offices. Postmasters will also be authorized to resume Saturday sales of money orders.

Assistant White House news secretary Joseph Laitin, announcing the plans, said improved efficiency would reduce the postal deficit, estimated at $400 million this fiscal year, despite the $15-million cost of the improved service.

MOVING WEST? — The Los Angeles Rams have announced that George Allen, the worried-looking defensive coach of the Chicago Bears, will be their next head coach. But Bears' owner and coach George Halas has taken the case to court.

MOVING UP IN THE WORLD—Scoring in the National Basketball Association means getting the jump on the defenses. San Francisco's Gary Phillips (left) and Baltimore's Don Ohl (right) are positive examples, but Jerry West (center) of Los Angeles was not so fortunate again at Boston's Bill Russell.

The Jacobys continue their discussion of hands from the International team trials.

Oswald: "What do you think of the luck element in the trials?"

Jim: "It was certainly present. Last week I mentioned the hand in the final match in which the location of the king of spades determined two of the three places on the team. On the other hand, luck tends to equalize and I doubt anyone can credit luck for making the team or charge luck for not making it. Everyone had plenty of chances to pick up International Match Points."

Oswald: "Nevertheless it's still disheartening when you really have bad luck. Here is a hand on which the normal bidding is shown in the box. South wound up as declarer at four spades. There was nothing to the play. South would win the heart opening in dummy and lead the queen of spades. The best defense would be to duck but most defenders would rise with the ace. In any event the trumps would be drawn sooner or later and a successful club finesse would produce a small slam."

Jim: "I see why you are driving at luck. Two South players decided to open one spade. This is poor tactics in general because you are starting an attack without enough ammunition. I am sure each South player was quite unhappy when his partner forced him into a slam contract but the finesse worked at six just as well as at four, and these lucky slam bidders were rewarded with 12 IMPs each."

Oswald: "That's just the point. The opening spade bid was unsound. The final slam contract was also unsound. There was no play for it without the club finesse and the hand would really have collapsed if suits had broken badly for declarer."

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Strange Things Happening In Research Laboratories

BY WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Allergy may be a cause of periodontal disease (pyorrhea), says the National Institute of Dental Research. More familiarly known to us in the form of sneezes, teary eyes, stuffy noses, hives, etc., allergic reactions seem to be involved in this disease.

Periodontal disease has been a scourge of mankind, and some animals, since ancient times. It's a disease characterized by swollen, inflamed gums, formation of pockets between teeth and gums, shrinkage of bone that holds teeth in the jaw, and loosening of teeth. P.D., as it is called, is the leading cause of tooth loss after age 35.

Even though there is no specific remedy for allergy, much is known about it. Using this knowledge, scientists at N.I.D.R. (which is part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare) have been able to reproduce some typical signs of P.D. in laboratory animals.

Does this mean that certain types of P.D. could be prevented by desensitization, as is possible with some allergies? Or controlled with antihistamines? It could be, but further research is needed.

There is a fantastic electronic tooth that N.I.D.R. is experimenting with. It has six miniature radio transmitters, 28 electronic components, and two rechargeable batteries.

This tooth has been placed in the jaw of a human volunteer for the purpose of measuring pressure and direction of force in chewing. It is hoped that this device will provide information on muscular function and related phenomena.

Do you suppose that splint have teeth like this and are able to send and receive messages? WOW!

Your child's teeth straightening problems may soon be identified before they even develop. Pressures of tongue against palate during swallowing can now be measured by special instruments and these devices have shown marked differences in tongue pressures.

Children with abnormal tongue pressures may have predictable types of crooked teeth. Thus orthodontic treatment can be more easily evaluated and planned.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

State Leads South in Use of U.S. Funds

By GORDON BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arkansas leads Southern states in the use of federal funds available for the war on poverty, the Office of Economic Opportunity reports.

As a group, the Southern states appear to lag behind the rest of the country in seeking anti-poverty money, the report shows.

Anti-poverty funds are available to states, generally speaking, on the basis of the number of poor, as shown by Census Bureau figures, residing within their boundaries. However, the money isn't provided unless state or local sponsoring groups ask for it.

The OEO reports that Arkansas ranks 19th among the 50 states in the number of poor but as of last Dec. 1 it ranked 13th in the amount of federal funds actually allocated.

Alabama ranks 11th in the number of poor but is 23rd in federal anti-poverty money received. South Carolina ranks 18th in number of poor, 33rd in federal funds received.

The OEO has a total of $1.5 billion dollars available for the various anti-poverty programs and up to Dec. 1 had allocated slightly more than $1 billion—some two-thirds of the amount available.

An OEO spokesman said the agency will take a look at the situation in the next few weeks and then will re-allocate to Northern states money originally earmarked for Southern states but which those states obviously can't use by June 30.

Arkansas, up to Dec. 1, had received a total of $25,752,000 in anti-poverty funds. This was greater than the total for any other state of the Deep South.

The OEO spokesman said Arkansas' record reflected a realistic recognition of the racial problem. He noted, for instance, that both Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas and Mrs. Faubus had been leaders in establishing Head Start programs in the state. These are programs for the teaching of children of pre-school age.

Arkansas has received these funds for the various anti-poverty programs:

Neighborhood Youth Corps, $10,367,087; Work Study, $1,074,081; adult basic education, $316,910; work experience, $485,400; rural loans, $1,329,500; Community Action programs, $687,433; Head Start programs, $1,888,062; Job Corps, $1,569,539; VISTA program, $56,960.

The state has 237 Head Start centers with 11,527 children participating in the program, according to the OEO figures.

It also has these participants in other programs: Job Corps, 212; Vista Volunteers, 17; Neighborhood Youth Corps, 12,957; adult basic education, 828; rural loans, 662; work experience, 4,325.

Anti-poverty projects of one type or another are under way in 166 cities and counties in the state, the OEO report showed.

Popular Woman Writer Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Kathleen Norris, one of America's most popular woman writers, has died at 85 after writing nearly 300 novels for people with simple needs and mo-

— "I have no knowledge of the dark forces which fascinate modern writers," said Mrs. Norris, reminiscing about her prolific writings recently.

The novelist was suffering from a circulatory ailment and fell into a coma a week ago. She died Tuesday at the Pacific Heights home of her son, Dr. Philip Norris, with her family gathered around her.

Her first novel, "Mother," was published in 1911. Former President Theodore Roosevelt was so moved by it that he climbed three flights of stairs to the Norris apartment just to talk to the author's hand.

From that year until her last novel, "Through a Glass Darkly," she produced nearly two books a year. 58 magazine serials and uncounted newspaper and magazine articles.

A critic once wrote that her novels "poured from her like water as sawdust pours from a mill."

Her late husband, Charles Norris, also a successful writer, wrote the foreword to her first novel, "Mother," and she wrote anywhere at any time.

"We would come home from the office," he once revealed, "and I would take 15 minutes to look at her, sit down and write for ten minutes."

The critics respected her craftsmanship but regarded her as an "inevitable romanticist" and refused to take her seriously.

A&M Finally Defeats Longhorns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texas A & M came from 13 points back Tuesday night to defeat the University of Texas, keep its Southwest Conference basketball record unblemished and take a sizeable lead into "examination lull."

Behind 42-29 at halftime, the Aggies held Texas to five field goals and 15 points in the second half as they won 64-75. They cashed two free tosses after the final buzzer.

The Aggies now boast a 5-0 record and do not play another conference game until Feb. 5. They tangle then with the current second place team, Texas Christian, at Fort Worth in day television encounter.

One game is scheduled Saturday as Southwest teams take time out from the backboards for semester examinations. Southern Methodist will journey to Lubbock for a TV matinee with Texas Tech.

SMU and Tech both have 1-1 conference records. Arkansas and Baylor stand 2-2 and Texas is 1-1. Rice in the conference cellar with a .3 record has a 12-game losing streak this season.

In Tuesday night's game at Austin, John Beasley and Randy Mason are shooters and rebounders for A&M, sat out much of the first half as the "little men" took over.

In the second half Beasley scored 22 points to pace Aggie shooters. Mickey White scored 18 as the top performer for the Longhorns.

Mrs. Gandhi Is New Leader in India

Famous Backfield

Harry Stuhldreher, Jim Crowley, Elmer Layden and Don Miller were the famous football backfield known as the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Mrs. Indira Gandhi, daughter of the late Jawaharlal Nehru, was elected today to be India's next prime minister, the first woman in modern times to head the government of a major nation.

India's ruling Congress party automatically elevated Mrs. Gandhi to prime minister by electing her leader of its majority faction in Parliament.

Thus on the shoulders of this 48-year-old widow fell the immense problems of India with which her father had wrestled for 17 years until his death in 1964 and which his successor, Lal Bahadur Shastri, had attacked vigorously until a heart attack killed him Jan. 11.

Mrs. Gandhi went to her victory wearing a red rosebud pinned to her shawl, just as her father wore a red rose daily throughout the tumultuous years after independence in 1947.

Mrs. Gandhi polled 355 votes to 169 for her only challenger, right-wing leader Morarji Desai.

Cheering erupted in Parliament's central hall when a party official, G.S. Pathak, announced the results of the secret ballot.

As the Nehru family once again took command in India, Mrs. Gandhi moved quickly to heal any damage done to party unity by the hectic political maneuvering that followed Shastri's death.

"I want your blessing," she told Desai as balloting began.

The stern, 69-year-old Desai replied, "Who am I to give you blessing? We need everybody's blessing."

HELEN HELP US!

Too Late To Be Sorry

Dear Helen: Maybe this letter about my brother will make other husbands stop and think.

My brother married a lovely girl when they were both 19. Mary (I'll call her) was a good housekeeper, always had Jim's meals on time and later on was a wonderful mother. Her whole life revolved around Jim.

Several years later I noticed she didn't seem very happy any more and asked her to confide in me. She said that Jim had changed. He was very cross, didn't seem to love her never gave her or the children any praise. She couldn't understand this because he was in good health. Mary's people were all dead, and she needed Jim more than he realized. No one could make him understand — to mention what was so obvious to others only made him mad.

I noticed Mary trying to forget her troubles in working hard. She sewed, did all the house and yard work, made a fine home, was cheerful, but I could see sadness in her face though she never mentioned it.

The children are now almost grown. Jim didn't change. Three months ago Mary became very ill, was taken to the hospital and died in less than 20 minutes, before Jim was even called.

Helen, unless Jim gets a good hold of his life, he isn't going to be here long. He can't eat and has become terribly thin.

The only thing wrong with him is REGRET and regret is an awful thing. He didn't have a chance to tell Mary he was sorry for making her unhappy. He never told her he couldn't have found a better wife anywhere, and now it's too late. I hope men reading this learn to "Say it." — Jane

Dear Jane: ... And women too! If we'd ALL treat our mates as if we might lose them tomorrow those marriages made in Heaven, would stay there.

Dear Helen: I am one little widow lady who lives junk mail. I think "Mother of Eight" was unkind to send back the postage-paid envelopes empty. I couldn't do that to anyone.

I means a lot to me just to have the postman stop at my door. And, besides, lots of that so-called junk mail is interesting, and the coupons sometimes save me money. I open everything, and think other people should too. After all, these companies spend a lot on advertising. They deserve to be read. Besides, I once found a check for $700 in an unopened envelope somebody had thrown in the post office wastepaper basket. I food and household products returned it and the company sent me a check for $5.00 for ton Enterprise, Milford, New York. Writer to this address for That might not be very much further information. Your queri to some people but for a woman who lives on $80 a month Social Security, it's a lot. Probably no one who has plenty of money enjoys junk mail, but I'm sure lonely people do. — Widow

Dear Helen: I'm sure you're right. Thanks for sending the other side of the picture, a lot of advertising companies will love you for it. — H.

NCAA Rules Before a Committee

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—

The NCAA Football Rules Committee has set up a subcommittee to study the use of closed-circuit television and other video devices as coaching aides while a game is in progress.

Ivy Williamson, chairman of the full committee, said Monday the subcommittee had not been given any definite date to report recommendations.

Williamson, athletic director at Wisconsin, named John Waldorf, supervisor of Big Eight Conference officials, to head the study group as the Rules Committee wound up a quiet three-day annual session.

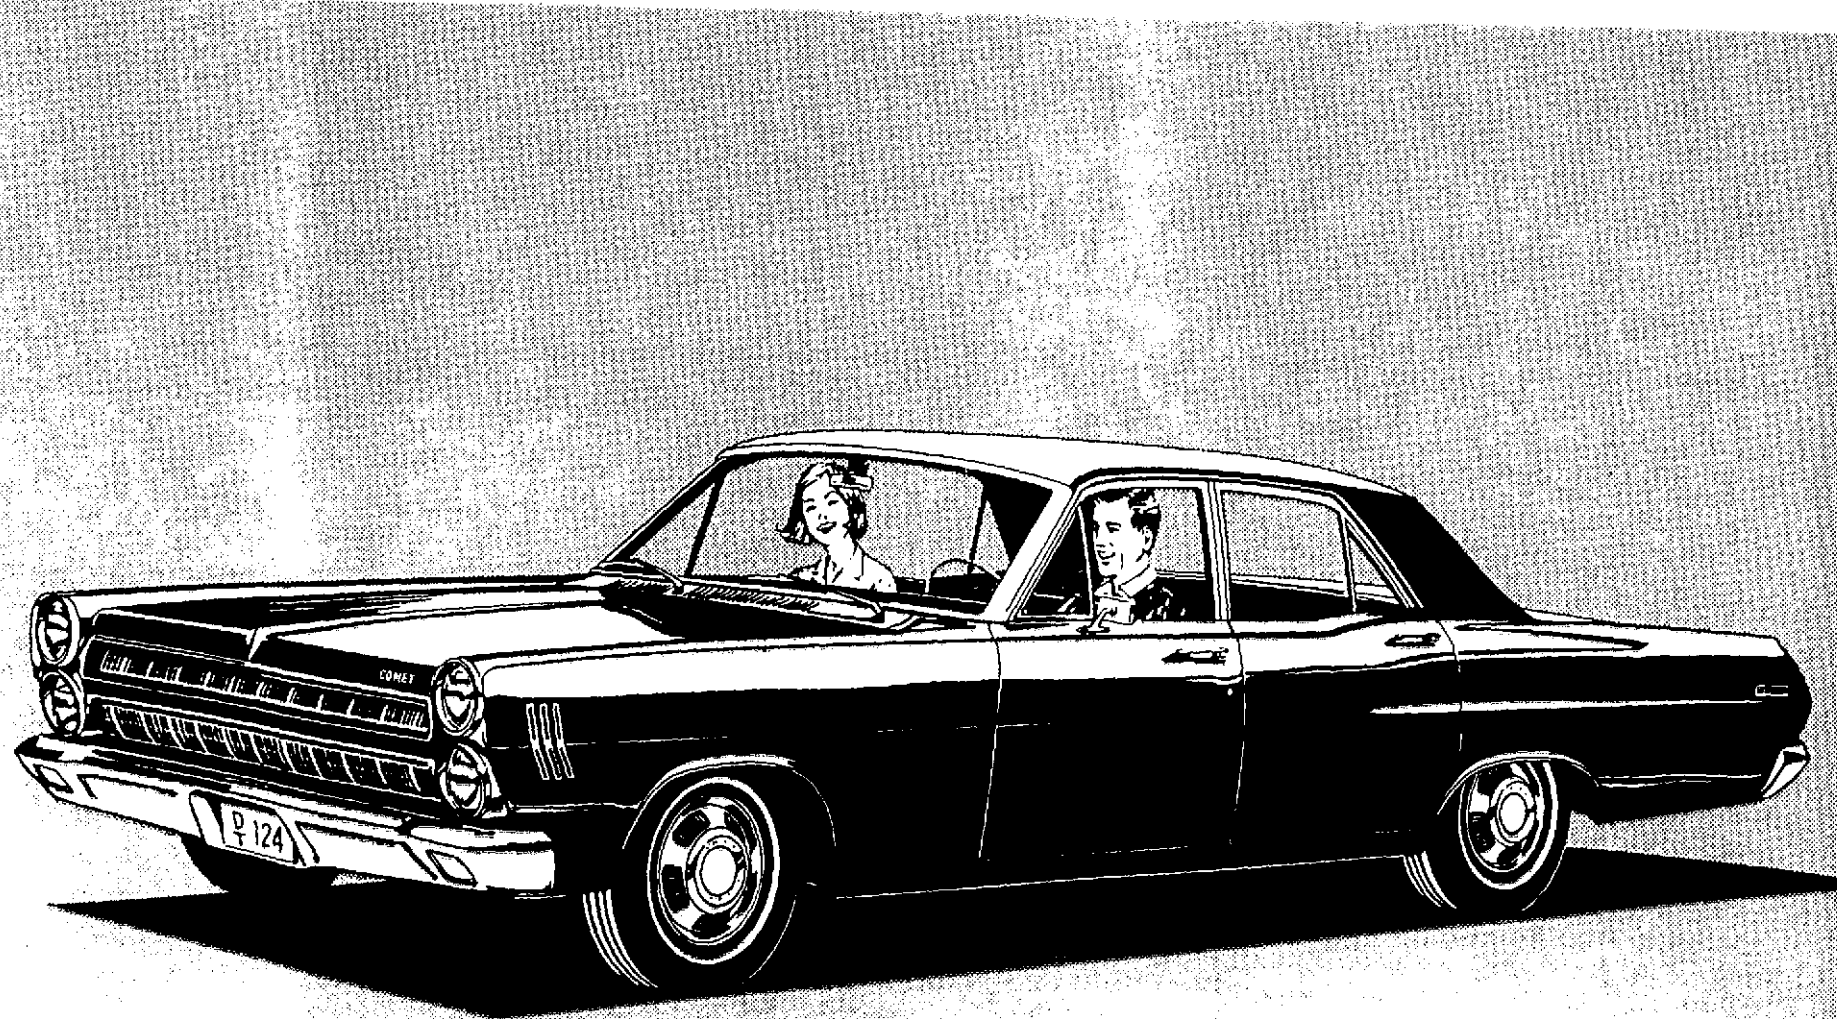

The official collegiate rules body had decided earlier in its session that nothing would be done about changing the present substitution rules which permit two - platoon football. Frank Popejoy, University of New Mexico president, had urged its elimination because he said it cost more money for coaches and athletic scholarships.

Sulphur Springs, Texas, Visitors at The Star

During the production of yesterday's Star we had as visitors in our plant the top men of the Sulphur Springs (Texas) News-Telegram — who gave close scrutiny to the various stages of making ready an off-set-printed newspaper and putting it to press.

The men were F. W. Frailley, publisher; Guy Felton, mechanical superintendent; accompanied by Eugene Wolschlagler of Wichita, Kan., offset production engineer for our press manufacturer, Fairchild Graphic Equipment.

Being veteran newspaper people themselves, what Mr. Frailley and Mr. Felton followed intently was the production traffic from pasteup of ads and news to the shooting of newspaper pages on the big camera, to plate-making with two pages per plate, and finally "on press."

Mr. Wolschlagler's interest, of course, was in selling Sulphur Springs a press like ours. It is Fairchild's latest model, the nearest duplicate press being in Orangeburg, S. C. — so of course we are having visitors, and there will be more to come.

Sulphur Springs is similar to Hope in size and so is the News-Telegram's circulation about that of The Star's.

What Publisher Frailley said on starting home last night was: "The thing I appreciated most was seeing you folks get out a brand new offset newspaper in all the crowded confusion of an outfit with two printing plants trying to occupy the same space. It's what all of us face in such a conversion. I got more out of viewing this than visiting an older operation with everything settled and in ship-shape."

He's telling us! But we are clearing the building of old stuff bit by bit, and when the old flatbed press goes out at the end of this month we'll have plenty of room and the time to get equipment properly organized. Meanwhile we've gotten to press on time for four consecutive days — so we're on our way.

Voting Rights Fate Now Up to Justices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fate of the 1965 Voting Rights Act is now in the hands of the Supreme Court for a decision Chief Justice Earl Warren says "has profound implications in the life of our nation."

An early ruling may be in the offing. Warren concluded two days of argument on the law's constitutionality Tuesday with praise for both sides of having "done what they can to accelerate an early judgment."

Twenty states joined the U. S. government in defending the law as an appropriate and constitutional means of assuring Southern Negroes of the right to vote. Six Southern states united to attack the measure as "arbitrary in nature" and unconstitutional punishment for the states.

The last word went to South Carolina Atty. Gen. Daniel R. McLeod who questioned the "tender solicitude" of states that sided with the Justice Department.

"California, Massachusetts and New York come before this court and say illiterates in South Carolina should be permitted to vote," McLeod said, and yet they bar illiterates in their own states with literacy tests.

Snow Hobbles Sections of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow hobbled traffic in the mountains of New Mexico today and Arctic air covered wide areas of the nation.

More snow fell from the Ohio Valley to the Great Lakes as a new cold wave blustered toward Montana from northwestern Canada.

Temperatures stayed below 20 in most of the northern Plains; the Great Lakes region and the upper Mississippi Valley.

Cloudcroft, in southeastern New Mexico, reported 11 inches of snow. Three inches of snow fell during Tuesday night's rush hours and slowed traffic in Albuquerque. Snow measured 8 inches in mountain areas.

The snow spanning the Ohio Valley dumped an inch of new snow in Grand Rapids and Muskegon, Mich., Tuesday. Light snow flurried as far west as Illinois.

Police in Montana east of the Continental Divide posted cold-wave and hazardous-driving warnings as an icy air mass blew down from Canada. Forecasters predicted 20 readings in the northern Rockies and the northern Montana plains.

An earlier Arctic chill sent the mercury down to 21 below zero early today at Lone Rock, Wis., and 16 below at Hibbing, Minn.

The Deep South was cloud-covered and rainy with drizzle extended into most of Texas, where 55-degree readings were reported in southern areas.

Mkt. Group Looks for More Trouble

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — France's five Common Market partners fear many more months of serious crisis lie ahead for the European Economic Community unless President Charles de Gaulle's government is willing to make some concessions.

Delegates privately expressed concern over the future of European unity after a two-day meeting that ended in disagreement on a French proposal that most of them viewed as more of an ultimatum.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville made an offer of limited cooperation with the other five members, provided they agreed — That each member retain a veto on major questions.

That steps be taken to trim the powers of the market's Executive Commission, which De Gaulle fears may turn into a super government.

The ministers agreed to meet again Jan. 28-29 for another try but it was felt success or failure depends largely on how much latitude De Gaulle will allow Couve de Murville.

Premier Pierre Werner of Luxembourg will report Thursday to the European Parliament in Strasbourg on the ministers' failure to solve the six-month-old crisis resulting from France's boycott of the community's meetings.

State IRS May Withdraw Table

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Revenue Department is considering withdrawal of a state income tax table which has resulted in overdeductions for some employees.

Ben Roland, head of the legal division for the department, said Tuesday night that overdeductions resulted because of misapplication of the table by some employers.

He said that one of four tables given employers for figuring deductions was intended to cover only employees with fluctuating incomes.

"What happened is that of these four tables given to employers, No. 3 (the one for employees with fluctuating incomes) is the easiest to use," Roland said.

State income tax is extensively withheld when table No. 3 is used for hourly wage employees on a full salary, Roland said. He said the table was intended for persons who work part time on an hourly wage or commission.

$12 Billion to Escalate War Is Asked

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asks Congress today to vote a $12.761-billion installment on the escalating bill for supporting the war in Viet Nam.

The second supplemental defense money request this fiscal year will provide, among other things, for adding 113,000 men to the armed forces and for buying their equipment. Civilian personnel will be increased by 94,000.

Most of the new troops will be allotted to the Army and Marine Corps, the services fighting the ground war in Southeast Asia. A few thousand men will be given each to the Air Force and Navy.

If Congress approves, as expected, the U.S. armed forces will go to 3,093,000 men — highest since a year after the Korean war.

Johnson's formal request to Congress was expected to provide details on the proposal for $12.346 billion in military money and $415 million for the economic side of the U. S. effort in Viet Nam.

The in-depth specifics may not emerge until Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara testifies in support of the money request Thursday.

From the skimpy information let out ahead of the presidential communication to Congress, it is known that $4.6 billion of the new supplemental will be spent by June 30, the end of the current fiscal year.

This, together with a $1.7-billion add-on to the defense budget for Viet Nam last summer, will jack up total military spending to $54.2 billion this year. This is about $6 billion higher than expected when the regular defense budget went to Capitol Hill nearly a year ago.

Following closely behind the $12.761-billion request for this year will come the regular defense budget proposal for next fiscal year — a request swollen to an expected $58.3 billion by the Viet Nam war.

And already there is talk in the Pentagon of preparing for still another money request, perhaps in the spring.

Planners Think U.S. Has to Step Up War

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — High-level U.S. planners in Viet Nam say the United States and South Viet Nam must step up the war, not de-escalate it, if the Communists are to be brought to the conference table and a favorable peace worked out, highly reliable sources reported today.

Top-level thinking is that in the unlikely event Hanoi and the Viet Cong ask for an armistice, Allied pressure should be stepped up rather than eased.

The bombings against North Viet Nam should be resumed and intensified, it is argued. Fighting should not end before the conclusion of peace talks.

These views, which appear at variance with President Johnson's current peace offensive, have been transmitted to Washington. What response has been made, if any, is not known.

The messages to Washington stressed that any peace could easily be lost unless the peace agreement contains ironclad guarantees that can and would be enforced. Otherwise, the American planners say, a Communist take-over is clearly possible.

Other warnings to Washington include a suggestion that no peace treaty be sought that would force North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh to admit defeat, even by implication.

This, top planners feel, could result in Ho's overthrow by a more aggressive, more Peking-oriented faction which would renew the war.

It is understood that some planners have urged the Johnson administration to draw up a politically realistic list of objectives expected from any peace conference.

Another suggestion was to set a tight time limit for peace talks so they would not drag on endlessly while the Communists continued to put on pressure in the countryside, where they now have a better grip than the South Vietnamese government.

Some top U.S. planners in Viet Nam also warn against entrusting ultimate supervision of the peace to the International Control Commission which was given the job by the 1954 and 1962 Geneva conferences. The South Vietnamese army should have ultimate responsibility, these officials feel.

It is doubtful that the suggestions set forth by these U.S. officials would be acceptable to the Communist side under any conditions short of impending defeat in the field or severe internal stresses.

The feeling here is that unless Peking, Hanoi and the Viet Cong realize that the United States and its allies not only have the power to win but are willing to use that power come what may, peace will be long delayed.

Revision of Draft Setup Is Discussed

By W. JOYNES MCFARLAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — College deferments and manpower problems top the agenda for a meeting here today of Midwestern and Eastern state draft directors with national Selective Service officials.

"The purpose of the meeting is to discuss potential additional sources of manpower to replenish the pool of men classified as 1-A and available for induction," a Selective Service spokesman said. He added:

"The possibility of a return to consideration of class standing and testing for alleged deferment will surely be discussed."

Under present Selective Service policies, the 2.2 million students holding college deferments only are required to be doing satisfactory work as full-time students at a properly accredited college or university.

The spokesman said no decision had been reached in the proposed reinstatement of the Korean War system of college deferments, ordered abolished by President John F. Kennedy in 1962. That system required local draft boards to take into consideration a student's class standing and his score on the Selective Service college qualification test.

Under those rules, a freshman had to be in the upper three-fourths of his class to be considered doing satisfactory work, a sophomore in the upper two-thirds and a junior in the upper half.

Li. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service, and draft directors from 10 Southern states discussed college deferment and other policies Jan. 9 at a regional meeting at Ft. Stewart, Ga.

A third regional meeting has been scheduled by Hershey with Western state draft directors Feb. 7 in San Diego, Calif.

Expected to attend or be represented at today's meeting are the state Selective Service directors of Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Vermont, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio, Virginia, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and the District of Columbia.

Draft directors for New York City — which is treated as a state for draft purposes — and Delaware attended a similar meeting here some time ago the spokesman said.

Clock Brings in Self-Styled V. Cong Truce

By EDWIN O. WHITE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — The clock brought the Viet Cong tonight into their self-proclaimed four-day truce for the lunar new year after they had staged a series of attacks, the bloodiest at a camp for 2,000 Vietnamese refugees.

American armed forces remained on full alert. It was still unclear whether the Communist truce offer — advertised as effective at 11 p.m. (10 a.m. EST) — covered U.S. and other Allied troops.

Thirty-three persons were killed and 54 wounded as the guerrillas swept down before dawn on the sleeping camp on the outskirts of Tam Ky, a provincial capital 350 miles northwest of Saigon. Many of the victims were women and children.

U.S. advisers said the raiders set fire to thatched huts, executed whole families on the spot, mangled the bodies and kidnapped nine men. They left behind leaflets denouncing U.S. operations as a "dirty war" of aggression against the people of Viet Nam.

As to the Viet Cong cease-fire, one intelligence source said hard information had been received that American GIs would not be included.
